1	U.S. Mark I Trench Knife by Landers, Frary & Clark 11" overall, 6 3/4" double-edged blade with flat-ground edges and a spear point. The grip is marked "U.S. 1918 / L.F. & C – 1918" on the obverse face. The blade is a polished gray tone with scattered flecks of patina here and there and subtle sharpening marks along the length; hints of original blackened finish remain primarily concentrated at the ricasso. The brass hilt retains some thinning black on the top of the guard and in protected areas, overall exhibiting a smooth yellow-tinged dark brown color with few blemishes or handling marks. Overall a very fine WWI trench knife. (129373-34) (400/600) Est. 400 - 600
2	Custom U.S. Model 1898 Krag Bowie Bayonet Fighting Knife This Krag Bowie bayonet has been modified for use as a fighting knife. 13 3/4" overall, 9" single-edged blade with a 2 1/2" V-ground segment on the spine and a clipped point. The ricasso is marked "1900" on the reverse face and "US" on the obverse. The quillons have been shortened and the muzzle ring and press stud have been removed; the stud guide has been neatly filled and the pommel polished smooth. The grips are original ribbed walnut and appear unaltered. The blade features an overall bright finish scattered by dark gray speckled areas of patina throughout. The edge has been ground to a fine cutting sharpness, likely during the period of use. The guard exhibits some areas of patina and the pommel is toned to a strong yet smooth dark brown throughout. Aside from the patina and handling marks few blemishes are visible. Overall the bayonet-turned-knife is in very good plus to excellent condition. A custom-fitted russet leather drop sheath is included. The leather exhibits light scuffing across the surfaces and the first 2" of stitching are beginning to separate at the throat, otherwise the sheath shows no more than superficial wear and the remaining stitching is tight and excellent. An unusual and perhaps unique variant of the desirable Krag Bowie bayonet. (126519-310Q) (400/600) Est. 400 - 600

The grips are ribbed plastic in mismatched colors, brown on the obverse and black on the reverse. The blade retains about 80% arsenal-reapplied finish with strong areas of silvering from contact wear, polishing and regrinding of the edges; the metal surfaces of the hilt and the first 3/4" of the ricasso retain about 98% original parkerization with only occasional handling marks or specks toning to dark brown. The grips exhibit a number of handling marks but remain whole and rightly fitted. Overall the bayonet is in very good condition. 88	U.S. Model 1917 Bolo by Springfield Armory 14 3/4" overall, 10" single-edged spear point bolo blade with a 3 1/2" false edge. The ricasso is marked "US / 59612" on the obverse face and "S A / (Flaming Bomb) / 1917" on the reverse. The blade retains about 60% original blue and exhibits a number of uneven grind marks on the reverse face and even marks from a thorough polishing. A speckled gray patina is visible along the bevels of the blade on either face. The metal surfaces of the hilt retain about 65% blue, mostly on the guard, and exhibit only a few light handling marks. The screws are missing from the obverse walnut grip but the grip remains secure with only a bit of play. Overall the knife is in good condition. The included scabbard is in very good plus condition with few blemishes except for light to moderate
00	scuffing on the leather tip. (126519-483L)
89	U.S. Model 1905 Bayonet Pairs with the U.S. Model 1903 and M1 Garand rifles. 20 1/2" overall, 16" single-edged spear point blade with single unstopped fullers and a 5 1/2" false edge. The ricasso is marked "S A / (Flaming Bomb) / 1908" on the reverse face and "US / 277031" on the obverse. The blade features a beautiful 99% arsenal-quality blue, likely applied during the inter-war period, over barely perceptible hints of previous pinprick pits and minute handling marks. The markings are crisp and clear. The very end of the point (less than 1/8") is bent to the reverse side from a previous impact, otherwise the blade is largely unblemished. The metal surfaces of the hilt retain about 98% original blue with some light handling marks and hints of dark brown patina here and there. The walnut grips exhibit a moderate darkened age patina and a number of minor handling marks but remain tightly fitted with no loss or major blemishes. The included U.S.N. Mk. 1 scabbard is in excellent condition with only the tiniest handling scuffs on the fiberglass body and tiny hints of patina on the Parkerized throat. A splendid M1905 bayonet, beautifully arsenal-refurbished for WWII issue. (126519-483M) 90	British No. 4 Mk. I & II Spike Bayonets Three British No. 4 spike bayonets which pair with the Lee-Enfield No. 4 Mk. 1 rifle. The first bayonet is a scarce No. 4 Mk. I by Singer Manufacturing Co., measuring 10" overall with an 8" cruciform fluted blade. The reverse face of the socket reads "No. 4 Mk. I / S.M.", worn soft but still just legible. The blade is bright with streaks of original matte blue here and there in the flutes and few if any blemishes. The socket retains about 95% original matte blue with minimal handling marks. Overall the bayonet is in very fine condition. The finely crafted fluted Mk. I was quickly replaced by the cheaper and simpler Mk. II design: only 75,000 No. 4 Mk. I bayonets were made, produced exclusively by Singer Manufacturing Co. at the Clydebank, Scotland plant from 1941-42. The second bayonet is a No. 4 Mk. II of the same dimensions with a round blade ending in a two-sided point. The bright blade exhibits only tiny speckled hints of gray patina and the socket retains strong original matte blue with slight silvering at the edges. The markings on either face of the socket (reverse "No. 4 Mk. II", obverse "15515") remain crisp and clear; this bayonet is in about excellent condition. The third bayonet is another No. 4 Mk. II of the same dimensions and configuration as the previous. The blade is 98% blued with very light handling marks and the socket has been strongly japanned with a slightly flaking black lacquer, obscuring the markings. The bayonet is in very good condition with few handling marks and includes a regulation-pattern No. 4 Mk. I scabbards in fine condition with minimal handling wear. Also included are three steel scabbards: the first two are regulation-pattern No. 4 Mk. I scabbards in very fine to near excellent condition with a few light handling marks here and there. The third is a rare No. 4 Mk. II scabbard with a flat-ended tip (rather than the typical ball finial) and very lightweight steel tube construction. The flat of the tip is marked "S191", the dispersal co

91	U.S. LC-14-B Woodsman's Pal 16 1/2" overall, 12" single-edged blade with a reverse billhook and a sharpened flat-ended tip. The blade is marked "Woodsman's Pal / 280" over the Victor Tool Co. address on the obverse face. The hilt is black japanned steel with stacked black leather grips. Some of the original leather spacers have been lost and replaced by light russet leather strips. The knucklebow is atypically shaped, resembling a mix partway between a reverse-P and the usual rounded D-guard; no impact marks or signs of damage are visible. The blade retains about 90% original blue finish interspersed with spotted clouds of ocher and dark brown oxidation staining and patina; the edges are lightly used, remaining cutting sharp with minimal handling wear. Overall the tool is in very good condition. Includes the tan canvas web sheath with steel wire belt hook.
	The sheath is in about good condition, exhibiting few signs of wear on the web itself, some oxidation on the pull tab of the zipper and a 6" segment on the reverse side where the zipper has separated from the web; the zipper remains attached at both ends and the sheath shows no material loss. A very good, if somewhat traveled, example of these acclaimed military brush tools. (126519-483P) 92	U.SMarked Canadian Model 1905/10 Ross Rifle Bayonet Pairs with the Canadian Ross Rifle. 14 3/4" overall, 10" single-edged "butcher-knife" blade with a hollow saber grind and a semi-spear point.
	The blade is finished bright, the ricasso and metal surfaces of the hilt are matte blue. The grips are walnut held by two screws. Either face of the blade and pommel are marked with both U.S. and Canadian proofs.
	The blade exhibits a few hints of patina here and there concentrated mostly at the tip but otherwise few handling marks. The edge is dull with a few impact nicks scattered here and there. The hilt retains about 95% original blue with silvering at the edges and occasional hints of dark brown patina on the pommel; the grips show light handling marks and remain tightly fitted with no loss or blemishes of note. Overall the bayonet is in quite fine condition. The included scabbard, also U.Smarked, is in very good plus to excellent condition; the surface exhibits light to moderate scuffing throughout with tight stitching and no instances of separation or loss. During the first World War, the U.S. purchased 20,000 Ross rifles with bayonets for training and Home Guard use after Canadian forces declared the arm obsolete for trench warfare. (126519-483Q)

Knives & Folding Saw

Title/Description

Two knives and a folding saw. The first knife is a handmade fixed blade sheath knife measuring 9" in length and featuring a 5" single-edged recurved blade with a hollow grind, 2" sharpened false edge and a straight-backed point. The hilt comprises a brass single guard and a stacked leather grip with aluminum spacers; the pommel is not present and the tip of the tang is exposed. The blade exhibits scattered spots of gray patina and a few areas of thin hints of speckled ocher. The roughly sharpened edge is a bit uneven in spots but remains cutting sharp. The grip exhibits only very light handling marks and is in fine condition aside from the absence of the pommel. The included leather sheath is in fair condition, exhibiting a number of handling marks and scuffs as well as several cuts and slices including a 4 1/2" segment on the reverse face which has been cut clean through to the interior; the stitching at the tip has separated, otherwise the remainder of the stitching remains tight and the sheath is whole, if somewhat worn. The second knife is a Maxam liner-lock folder measuring 4" folded, 6 1/2" overall, featuring a 3: single-edged clipped point blade with a hollow saber grind, reverse-face thumb stud and 1" of serrations on the true edge above the ricasso. The handles are gray-lacquered aluminum held by steel screws: the obverse face is fitted with a tip-down stainless steel pocket clip. The knife is in excellent condition with few if any blemishes and appears unused. The saw measures 9 1/2" folded, 16" overall, featuring a 7" blade with 1/4" cross-cut teeth. The handles are contoured gray plastic with a latch on the rear edge to hole the saw open. The saw exhibits few if any blemishes except for the loss of its original labels and is in overall excellent condition. (126519-483Z)

U.S. Model 1873 Trowel Bayonet Pairs with the U.S. M1873 Trapdoor rifle. 15 3/4" overall, 10" leaf-shaped trowel blade measuring 3 1/2" wide at the base. The blade is polished bright and, aside from a few scattered specks of gray patina here and there, is largely unblemished and in excellent condition. The strongly blued socket handle is also excellent, retaining about 85% original blue with a few instances fading to a smooth smoky gray. The original walnut handle insert is included and also in excellent condition.
The scabbard is tin bound in black leather with brass fittings and is in fine to excellent condition. The leather exhibits only minor storage and handlings scuffs and the belt loop shows some moderate crazing throughout; otherwise all stitching remains tight and the scabbard remains whole with no loss or damage of note. The brass surfaces are strongly patinated to a dark goldenrod brown. A quite splendid example of these late 19th century entrenching tools. (126519-483AA)

103 U.S. Model 1873 Trowel Bayonet Pairs with the U.S. M1873 Trapdoor rifle. 14 1/2" overall, 10" leaf-shaped trowel blade measuring 3 1/2" wide at the base. The blade is moderately oxidized on the top face and polished on the back faces, retaining about 40% original blue mostly on the back faces interspersed with dark smoky gray patina on the exposed steel. The socket handle retains about 80% blue with speckled areas of subtle dark patina and small clouds of oxidation scattered sparsely throughout. The included scabbard comprises a tin body in black leather with brass fittings. The scabbard is in poor to fair condition; the leather is dry and split along most of the medial on the back face, at the throat, and around most of the circumference near the tip. The remainder of the body exhibits light to moderate crazing and the leather hanger shows moderate crazing throughout and moderately strong green verdigris on the rear brass fittings. The tip chape and "US" medallion on the hanger are patinated to a dark golden-brown. The tin body exposed by the cracks in the leather is strongly oxidized. Despite the aforementioned wear, little to no material has been lost and the scabbard remains whole with tight stitching. A salty old entrenching tool from the latter half of the 19th century which shows its age but wears it well. (126519-483AB)

104 British Pattern 1907 Bayonet by Sanderson Pairs with the British Short Magazine Lee-Enfield (SMLE) No. I Mk. III rifle. 21 1/2" overall, 17" single-edged blade with single unstopped fullers and a straight-backed point. The ricasso is stamped with British proofs on the obverse and with the royal cypher of King George V, "1907", "18" production date (stamped twice) and partially faded maker's mark on the obverse. The blade is bright with tiny freckles of smoky gray patina scattered throughout alongside a number of tiny handling and maintenance marks; the previously service-sharpened edge has worn smooth and blunt mostly from scabbard contact. The metal surfaces of the hilt exhibit a subtle gray cleaned pewter patina, the pommel exhibiting a few shades of brown, and the walnut grips remain tightly fitted with a bit of wear around the screws but otherwise no handling marks of note. The bayonet is in overall very good plus to excellent condition. The included scabbard is black leather with steel mounts and in fine condition: the metal surfaces exhibit light patina and a few tiny instances of oxidation here or there but no handling marks or deformations. The fit of the scabbard is imperfect and the leather may have contracted with age; otherwise the leather body exhibits light surface wear only, with no instances of separation or loss and retains tight complete stitching. (126519-483AC) 105 Fixed Blade Sheath Knives by KJ Ericksson Three knives manufactured by the Swedish cutlery company KJ Ericksson (today Morakniy). The first measures 8" overall and features a 4" single-edged carbon steel blade with a Scandi grind and a shallow straight-clipped point. The hilt comprises a flat-faced stainless double S-quard, a stainless steel ferrule and a sanded birch handle with an integral pommel. The blade exhibits a few spots of cleaned smoky gray storage patina here and there but otherwise the knife is unused in near mint condition, retaining the razor sharp factory edge. The included russet leather sheath is lined with stainless steel reinforcements at the throat and the tip and rates excellent with minimal wear. The second knife measures 9" overall with a 5" single-edged blade with a trailing point and a Scandi grind. The hilt comprises a single stainless steel guard, a stainless steel ferrule and a sanded birch handle with an integral pommel. The knife is in mint condition except for a few negligible tiny specks of cleaned gray patina just visible at some of the edges and corners of the blade; the untouched factory edge remains razor sharp and unblemished. The included light tan buff leather sheath also rates excellent. The third knife measures 8" overall and features a 4" single-edged clipped point blade with a hollow saber grind and a 1 3/4" unsharpened false edge. The hilt comprises a stainless steel flat-faced double S-guard, stainless steel ferrule, varnished birch handle and stainless steel pommel held by a tang screw. The knife is in excellent condition with a razor sharp edge and a few scattered handling and maintenance marks on the faces of the blade. An attractive set of these terrific Swedish-made knives. (126519-483AD) Lapplandskniven Large Puukko Sheath Knife 13 1/2" overall, 8 1/2" single-edged broad blade with a 2" false edge, a Scandi grind and a straight-backed point. The blade is etched "Lapplandskniven / Helle / Norge" on the reverse face. The handle is an attractive natural-finish birch between a brass ferrule and a brass flat pommel cap. The blade is in excellent condition with few if any discernible blemishes. The edge is razor sharp throughout and in perfect condition. The brass is also about excellent with only a few hints of pating and verdigris here or there. The wood is unblemished. The included brown leather sheath accommodates the knife nearly to the base of the pommel and features finely tooled images of a blossoming branch, a stag's head and a wolf's head on the front face. The surface is very slightly wrinkled and is otherwise unblemished except for a 3" cut through the front face from an improper draw of the knife.

107 Socket Bayonets

Three socket bayonets. First, a U.S. Model 1873 socket bayonet, 18" triangular blade with hollow-ground back flutes, beak point and shallow face flute, 3" bottom-bridged three-step L-mortise socket with a rotating clasp. The top face is marked "US / S". The bayonet is in very fine to near excellent condition, retaining about 95% original blue with silvering at the edges and a bit of thinning and patina toward the tip. Two matching scabbards are included. The first is in very fine condition, retaining about 90% blue with scattered tiny flecks of oxidation here or there, light instances of patina on the brass hanger and some light scuffing on the leather throat. The second scabbard rates very good plus, retaining about 40% blue with a polished smoky pewter patina throughout the body; the leather collar is whole and exhibits light to moderate crazing but not separation or loss and the brass hanger exhibits some light patina here and there. The second bayonet is a U.S. Model 1795 or similar early U.S. pattern: 15" triangular blade with hollow-ground back flutes, flat top face and narrow partial face flute running 6 1/2" from the beak point; 2 1/2" unbridged three-step L-mortise socket. The top face flat is marked "US" and "WB" just ahead of the shank. The bayonet is in somewhat poor condition, exhibiting moderate oxidation across the surfaces and a few nicks in the edges of the blade. The socket exhibits an impact deformation on the obverse side at the third step of the mortise. The third bayonet is a British Pattern 1853 bayonet for the Pattern 1853 Enfield Rifle-Musket: 18" triangular blade with raised shoulders at the shank and hollow-ground face flutes running 16" from the beak tip; 3" bottom-bridged three-step L-mortise socket with a rotating clasp. The metal surfaces are an overall pewter gray with areas of darkened patina and partially cleaned dark brown oxidation. Otherwise the bayonet shows only a few very light handling marks and is in very good plus to excellent condition. (126519-483AF)

108 U.S. M3 Fighting Knife by Imperial

11 1/2" overall, 6 3/4" single-edged spear point blade with a 3" false edge. The top face of the guard is marked "US M3 / Imperial" and the flat of the pommel is stamped with the Ordnance Department Flaming Bomb. The metal surfaces are polished bright and interspersed with clouds of smoky gray patina; the guard and pommel show areas of thin ocher oxidation. The stacked leather grip is patinated to black and shows a few light handling marks but is largely unblemished with only superficial wear. The included U.S. M8 scabbard is in poor condition: exposure to a heat source has caused splitting, melting and blackening of the fiberglass composite in the lower half toward the tip; the upper half still accommodates the knife and is largely unblemished except some expected light storage wear and instances of oxidation on the throat. (126519-483AG)

109 Russian Model 1940 Tokarev Bayonet

Pairs with the Tokarev SVT-40 rifle. 13 7/8" overall, 9 1/4" single-edged spear point blade with single unstopped fullers. The ricasso and guard are marked with several stamps of which only the later-added "1961" date on the ricasso and "3962" serial number on the guard, both on the reverse side, are now legible. The metal surfaces are polished bright with hints of blue in the fullers, at the base of the ricasso and in the protected areas of the pommel. The walnut grips are marked "2093" on the reverse face and are in good condition, exhibiting some light handling marks and areas of roughness but remaining tightly fitted with no loss or separation. The included steel scabbard features a flattened tip and exhibits a number of small handling marks and light dings throughout; about 95% original blue finish remains and the scabbard is in very good condition overall. 	including such tools as matches, a wire saw and several fish hooks. The 420 stainless steel blade is finished bright and in excellent condition with a cutting sharp edge and only a few minor maintenance marks. The hilt exhibits a few spots of flaking coat but otherwise little wear. The minimal wear and includes a sharpening stone in the integral front pocket. (129101-19B)

140	U.S. Zouave/Sharps-type Saber Bayonet 24 3/4" overall, 20" single-edged forward-curved spear point blade with a 6 1/2" sharpened false edge and wide single unstopped fullers. This bayonet is similar to the U.S. Model 1862 Remington "Zouave" bayonet, although the bore diameter (about 0.821") is too small to fit that rifle, and also resembles the Model 1860 Sharps rifle bayonet, though the stud guide appears shorter than on other known examples. The rear flat of the ribbed cast brass hilt is numbered ""C948767". The blade is an overall dark burnished gray with mottled areas of dark plum-toned texturing from cleaned oxidation and flaking remnants of a previous strong japanning can be seen in the fullers. The edges are maintained cutting sharp with a number of tiny impact nicks and the blade surfaces are polished smooth throughout. The hilt exhibits dark areas of patina mostly in the recesses of the grooves and is otherwise a dull pale goldenrod scattered by numerous yet tiny handling marks throughout.

141	Marble's No. 5 Safety Axe and Charter Arms Skatchet One safety hatchet and one "Skatchet" skinning knife/hatchet head. The hatchet features a steel head, 4 3/4" from bit to poll with a 2 1/2" bit, mounted on a 9 1/4" hickory haft inlaid with a folding sheet steel edge guard. The axe is in excellent condition with no blemishes except occasional instances of negligible storage wear. The skatchet measures 6" from bit to poll. The head is contoured to the hand and features a 3 3/4" bit with a rounded cutting edge on one side, flat end on the other and a cutting notch cutout behind the flat edge. The skatchet is in mint condition with no discernible blemishes. The included leather cover rates excellent with only vestigial storage wear. (129101-17) 6 3/4" overall, 3" single-edged blade with a flat grind and a straight-backed point. The handle is black powder-coated aluminum with the text "Gerber Pixie" stamped onto the forward edge. The maker's mark has somewhat softened, otherwise the knife is in mint condition with no discernible blemishes, as is the included brown leather sheath.

143	Gerber BMF Survival Knife 14 1/2" overall, 8 3/4" single-edged clipped point blade with a hollow saber grind and a 4" unsharpened false edge. The blade and tapered cylinder tang nut are steel and the guard and pommel are aluminum, all finished in matching light satin gray. The grip is made of dense black rubber foam. The black canvas web sheath features a front pocket protected by a wraparound snap-button strap, an integral honing steel fixed to the rear face and a folding steel wire belt hook. Both knife and sheath are in mint condition with no discernible blemishes.

The reverse-face bevel is etched with three panels: the side panels depict patriotic slogans and flank a U.S. Federal Eagle in the central panel. The brass double guard is faded to a pale white gold color and the handles are dark varnished walnut with an inlaid nickel silver shield on the reverse grip. The blade is finished mirror bright with little to no patina or corrosion and scattered by a number of thin handling marks across the surfaces as well as a number of impact dings and indentations along the length of the edge. The hilt shows a bit of thin speckled patina along the exposed faces of the steel tang but otherwise no more than a few sparse tiny handling marks on either the brass or the wood. 151	Reproduction Fairbairn-Sykes Fighting Knife 11 1/4" overall, 6 1/2" double-edged spear point blade with a flat grind. The flat steel guard and ribbed cast brass grip are finished black. The blade and top face of the guard are repainted to a light satin gray with areas of the original dark blue finish visible beneath. The hilt shows instances of handling marks and finish wear at the exposed edges but otherwise the knife shows few handling marks and overall is in very

152	Fairbairn-Sykes Third Pattern Fighting Knife 11 7/8" overall, 6 3/4" double-edged spear point blade with a flat grind. The flat steel guard is blued and the ribbed cast brass grip is finished black. Every seventh rib is beaded rather than smooth. The underside of the guard is marked "England" and the top of the grip is stamped with a Broad Arrow over "1" proof. The blade is strongly blued throughout and rates excellent with no discernible blemishes. The guard exhibits some silvering at the edges and the grip retains about 70% original finish with areas worn to yellow brass scattered throughout. The included leather sheath is in about excellent condition, showing some expected patina but few blemishes of note, remaining supple with excellent stitching. A very nice Third Pattern British Commando knife with an attractively embellished hilt. (128570-23A)

The pommel exhibits a few hints of dark ocher-brown patina and the grip shows only superficial tiny handling marks. Overall the bayonet is in excellent condition. The included scabbard is an early production M8A1, sans the steel tip of later examples, and is also in

The bayonet is in excellent condition, retaining about 98% original Parkerized finish on the metal surfaces and showing few if any handling marks on the grip. The included U.S. M8A1 scabbard is in very fine condition with few blemishes except for a green band of duct tape adhesive residue (possibly from the period of use) around the body just below the throat and the number "113" hand-scratched into the front face. The metal surfaces retain about 95% arsenal-applied Parkerized finish with a scant few instances of silvering at the edges and contact points. The ribbed brown plastic grips exhibit only the tiniest of handling marks and are nearly unblemished. Overall the bayonet is in excellent condition. The included U.S. M7 scabbard also rates excellent with very few handling marks and the barest hints of patina on the Parkerized throat. An altogether splendid example of these mid-war M1942 to M1 conversions. The elevation adjustable front sight boss is present but there are no sight parts, the left side has the correct Shooting Master markings with a barrel address ending with an "Oct. 5, 1926" patent date. Also included is (1) factory Colt New Service 38 Special 4 inch "bolster" barrel with an excellent bore. The metal surfaces retain about 98% original blue with light edge wear and handling marks. The .82" wide front sight is present and the barrel features a 1926 patent date. The last item is (1) custom .45 caliber 11 15/16" barrel with an excellent bore. The metal surfaces retain about 95% later applied blue showing handling marks and edge wear. The barrel features three wide lands and grooves and appears to have started life as a rifle barrel. The barrel has a barrel sight band with an approximately .258" inside diameter "front sight tube" with a thin brass blade mounted on top of the tube. As an aside the barrel threads fit an 1891 era Colt Single Action Army revolver-frame we had in house but the shank is too long. The shank measures .698" wide across the threads, .884" long overall, the threads about .562" long and approximately .163" unthreaded section of shank before the breech end of the barrel .(86519-169F)

1091	Colt Woodsman Match Target Barrel This barrel is a factory 22 LR, 6" full lug heavy barrel for a third series Colt Woodsman Match Target pistol with an excellent bore. The barrel address "COLT'S PT. FA. MFG. CO. HARTFORD CT. U.S.A." on the side of the barrel indicates 1956 or later manufacture. 	This barrel is a factory 22 LR, 6 5/8" heavy barrel for a first series Colt
	surfaces retain about 97% original blue with high edge wear and light to moderate handling marks. The left side of the barrel flat has "MATCH /

1094	Colt Woodsman Match Target Barrel
	This barrel is a factory 22 LR, 6 5/8" heavy barrel for a first series Colt Woodsman Match Target pistol with an excellent bore. The metal surfaces retain about 97% original blue with high edge wear and light to moderate handling marks. Unlike other barrels of that era the top and bottom have dulled matte finish with high polish on the sides. The left side of the barrel flat does not have the iconic "MATCH / [bullseye] / TARGET" but the top of the barrel is stamped with a crisp "COLT'S MFG. CO. HARTFORD CT. U.S.A." barrel address. The front sight base is present but the front sight blade and parts are not. The reason for the differences in markings and finish quality eludes us but one can speculate it may be a late parts clean-up or late war barrel for a government contract. (86519-169K) 1095	Colt and Hi-Standard Barrels
	This lot includes: (1) factory 22 LR, 4 1/2" tapered barrel for a second 1	series Colt Woodsman Sport with an excellent bore. The metal surfaces retain about 99% plus original blue and appears unused. The left side of the barrel is marked "COLT'S MFG. CO. HARTFORD CT. U.S.A." and 1	place manufacture between 1947 and 1955. It has a fixed serrated ramp 1	front sight. The second barrel includes (1) factory 22 LR, 6" tapered barrel for a second series Colt Woodsman Target pistol with an excellent 1	bore. The metal surfaces retain about 90% original blue with high edge wear and handling marks. The markings on the side of the barrel are the same as the above Sport barrel and places manufacture in the same time frame. The front sight assembly is present including the blade but the forward section of the base is splayed out and the sight is loose. A good gunsmith may save the base or it may just be easier to replace it.
	The last barrel is (1) factory 22 LR, 4 1/2" heavy barrel with light scallops at the rear and an excellent bore for a High Standard letter series pistol.
	The metal surfaces retain about 99% original blue with handling marks and serrated Patridge front sight. (86519-169L) (500) light use. The included white silk canopy rates very fine showing some scattered light stains but appears to be otherwise intact with no visible markings. There are a few portions of torn red fabric present, some loose cord and a detached red and white pilot chute with broken wire cord. There is an ink stamp on the pilot chute that remains partially legible and appears to read "Gxxxx - 505A1 / 11528709 / (11 / 12)". Also included is the original parachute test booklet (Fallschirm-Prufschein) with matching number of the parachute on the cover (2028517) dated black stitched swastika in a white circle. The armband shows a moderate tear at one edge, some light staining and a few loose threads in the swastika but otherwise rates very good and appears to be of period construction although there are no markings present. A very nice

1141	Antique Double Shot Snake Pouch
	The pouch proper measures about 16 1/2" and rates about good showing flaked finish mostly worn to a natural tone with scattered creasing and handling marks. The leather is perhaps a little tender in some areas but otherwise intact and whole, the strap is also present.
	The brass spouts remain fully functional with both measures present having toned to a pleasant ocher patina, the interior protected areas of the spring clips showing a few flakes of fire blue. There are some areas of loose stitching around the hardware, perhaps repaired during the 44.5	period of use but they otherwise remain secure. (13A9714-1I) left side butt is painted with the rack number "42" and there is a strong "DoD" cartouche. The second stock rates similar showing an extensive repair on both sides of the rear receiver area, scattered light dings and minor staining. The stock retains a good "P" firing proof and ordnance wheel, there is no buttplate or rear sling swivel present though the front nosecap assembly is intact. The M15 grenade launcher sight retains perhaps 85% original Parkerized finish showing some mild brown freckling and light oxidation staining. (136519-485D) dings and scuffs. The third pair rates very good plus showing some

1193	U.S. First World War New York Artillery Uniform Ensemble with Portrait Included are a wool jacket, breeches, belt, two rolls of puttees, overseas cap, pair of dog tags and a portrait. The portrait is identified as Noah C.
	Bergeron who served in the 77th "Statue of Liberty" Division, 305th Artillery Regiment, Battery B. The 77th Division was mostly drawn up from New York City, hence the Statue of Liberty moniker and sleeve insignia, and was active from 1917-1919 participating in such battled as Chateau-Thierry, the Meuse-Argonne offensive and operations in the Oise-Aisne area. The pair of aluminum dog tags with cord are also identified to Bergeron and are stamped with only his name and serial number "1686821". Strangely, both the jacket and breeches are identified to a "C. W. Camp" but nevertheless bear appropriate insignia matching that of the information provided in the Bergeron portrait. All articles rate very fine with scattered small moth bites throughout, a bit more noticeable along the breeches which also show a few small repairs and some other light handling marks. All Federal Eagle buttons are intact with "US" right collar device and "305 / (Crossed Cannons) / B" left collar device denoting Battery B, 305th Artillery. Sleeve insignia includes a crossed cannons patch on the right sleeve and blue silk division insignia with nice bullion thread embroidered Statue of Liberty. The left sleeve also bears a single private rank chevron and two service chevrons and a World War One Victory Medal is also affixed to the left pocket with battle clasps for "DEFENSIVE SECTOR", "OISE-AISNE" and "MEUSE-ARGONNE", all appropriate for the 77th Division. The overseas cap also has a small blue enameled 77th Division pin with Statue of Liberty insignia. While "C. W. Camp" is not quite enough information to go on, cursory research does reveal a Noah Cyrille Bergeron of Fitchburg, MA registering for the draft on June 5, 1917 and serving from March 1918 to May 1919. Bergeron lived from 1893 to 1984, passing away on March 2 of that year. Despite the discrepancy of uniform and portrait this is a very nice, mostly complete First World War uniform ensemble for the militaria collector. (13B8899-34) 1194	U.S. Army Second World War Enlisted Man's Jacket
	This wool coat is size 37R and dated 1942, complete with gold Federal Eagle buttons, "US" disc on the right lapel and Coast Artillery Corps disc on the left. There is an embroidered honorable discharge eagle above the right pocket, the sleeves have corporal rank insignia, Sixth Army insignia, five overseas service bars on the left sleeve and one enlistment stripe. The jacket rates near excellent showing just a couple small moth bites and overall minor handling marks. A small address book dated 1943 is present in the pocket identified to a PFC Lawrence Snow (surname appears to be Snow, it is somewhat difficult to decipher) 4405	Battery C 163rd Antiaircraft Artillery Battalion. (13A8899-33) 1195	U.S. Army Second World War Wool Greatcoats Two enlisted man's coats. The first appears to be a size 38, the ink stamp is somewhat soft, the length letter is illegible and "M-5966" is also ink-marked in the interior. There are no visible maker labels and this example features brass buttons. Coat remains in very fine to near excellent condition showing some light handling marks and no evident moth damage. The second coat is size 36R with no other visible maker's markings. This example has an embroidered honorable discharge eagle patch and features brown plastic buttons. It remains in very fine to near excellent condition showing light handling marks and no evident moth damage. (13A8899-32)

1196	German Holster Lot Two World War Two era black leather flap holsters for small frame 32 or 380 Auto pistols. The first holster is coded "jba / 1941" and rates very fine retaining most of its black finish with some thinning and wear along the high edges of the flap and magazine pouch, some light crackling also along the flap and some other handling marks. All stitching is intact and strong. The next holster is clearly marked "SCHAMBACH & CO / 1938 / BERLIN" with slightly softened but visible eagle proof and is also numbered on the back "335076". The holster rates very good plus showing some scattered high edge wear and some minor crackling along the flap. All stitching is intact and strong. A nice set of German holsters for the militaria collector. (13A8899-83) 1197	Italian Holster Lot Three vintage Italian style military flap holsters. First is a brown holster for a smaller likely 25 ACP Beretta pistol that remains in very good condition showing some thinning and wear along the high edges, minor creasing and handling marks. The interior is neatly ink-marked with the name "Bruttel". The next holster is in the familiar Italian green leather likely for a Beretta 32 or 380 auto and rates very good with overall scuffs, minor crackling and wear on the button strap. Finally there is a brown leather holster likely for a Beretta 32 or 380 auto that rates good showing overall scuffs and light staining and a different style belt loop 1198	has been neatly stitched on during the period of use. (13A8899-83A) Scarce German Hard Shell Mauser & Sauer Holster by Gebruder Hast
1190	This is a seldom seen original holster for Mauser 1914, 1934 and Sauer 38H pistols normally used by German police. The holster rates very good plus showing some moderate scuffing and some light cracking along the lid, some lighter edge wear and handling marks. The lid strap appears to have been very neatly reattached during the period of use, the pistol pull tab is missing and the belt loop has also been lost, the back side now showing a pair of neat slits for belt attachment. All stitching otherwise remains strong, the interior is crisply marked "Gebr.
	Hast / Dresden" and the interior lid with large ink stamp "L. G". A fine 1100	example for the German martial collector. (13A8899-83B) 1199	First World War Holster Lot Three holsters. First is an unmarked dark brown leather flap holster likely for a German Dreyse 1907, the telltale imprint of which is readily apparent. The holster rates very fine showing some overall mild edge wear, light scuffs and handling marks with otherwise strong stitching.
	The second is a brown leather flap holster also for a Dreyse or similar and is marked on the inside flap "OTTO STUERTZ / ALLENSTEIN / 1917" along with a large artillery unit ink stamp "B.A. XI." This holster rates fair-good showing moderate crackling overall, light staining and handling marks with otherwise strong stitching. The final holster is a somewhat scarce French contract Savage 1907 dark brown leather holster with correct "AE" maker's stamp. The holster rates fair-good showing moderate crackling, minor staining and handling marks. The magazine pouch button snaps are torn from the leather, but the hardware is present and the stitching is otherwise intact. The inside shows a faint name written in ink and a serial number that appears to be "160924" which, if it were the original pistol's serial number, would fit into the French contract range. (13A8899-83C) 1200	Vintage Semi-Auto Pistol Holsters Three total. These leather flap holsters are likely World War Two era for a variety of European small semi-auto pistols. The first dark brown holster appears to have held a Mauser Model 1910 25 ACP pistol and rates very fine showing some light high edge wear and other scattered handling marks. There is a name written on the inside that remains legible "Sepp Prammer (Privat)". The next brown leather holster is unmarked and appears to be for a Walther PP or similar and rates fair-good showing overall light crackling and scuffs, the magazine pouch has been lost and the remaining stitching is otherwise intact. The final brown leather holster is for a small vest pocket sized pistol and rates about good showing some light crackling, edge wear and minor staining with otherwise strong stitching. (13A8899-83D)

	Two brown leather military flap holsters for the U.S. Model 1911 pistol.
	The first rates very fine with a crisp "BOYT / 42" marking on the back and nice embossed "US" on the flap. The internal spacer has been removed and there are a few letters lightly scratched on the body, otherwise the holster just shows some minor scuffs and handling marks with strong stitching. The second holster is a somewhat scarce example by Craighead and rates good-very good showing moderate overall scuffing and edge wear, some light staining and verdigris around the brass hardware. The stitching is otherwise strong and the internal spacer is intact. The Craighead logo on the back is very soft with the right edge partially visible, the "US" above it is clear and the large embossed "US" on the flap is also quite nice, the interior of the flap 1204	Four vintage pocket holsters for small frame revolvers, likely intended for a variety of Iver Johnson, H&R, Colt and S&W models. The first is unmarked and appears to be for a 3" barrel and rates good showing some light staining, moderate high edge wear and light scuffs scattered about. The second is also unmarked and appears to be for a 4" model and is stamped "223" on the back. It rates very good plus showing some light edge wear and minor handling marks, all stitching remains strong and the back has been modified during the period of use with slits for dual purpose use as a belt holster. The third holster is for a 3" - 3 1/2" nice antique open top belt holster for a large frame revolver with a 6" or 7" barrel. The edge of the holster is held together by wide leather lacing 1263	Vintage Revolver Speed Loader This lot features a vintage "Revolver Cartridge Clip Corporation / New York" marked speed loader for .38 caliber revolvers. Information on this interesting piece of nostalgia is sparse but they appear to have been used by U.S. and British troops for speed loading 38 Special and 38 S&W Victory Model revolvers during WWII and probably by police and security agencies. It is chrome plated and features six half circular blue steel clips stepped in three rows of two. There is a circular finger ring with the company information cast into them. One unique feature is that the clip is split in half and spring loaded allowing the clip to be carried in a flatter profile. On extracting the device from the holder, the hefty spring snaps the halves together allowing insertion of the cartridges into the chambers. In use, the cartridges are inserted into the chambers and the loader pulled away with the finger loop allowing them to drop into the individual chambers. This loader shows light use with handling marks and a few stray oxidation stains. If you collect WWII or police firearms 1001	you need to add this to your collection. (8C9713-7M)

1492	Allied Soldier's Letter on Führer's Berchtesgaden Stationary This framed letter was purportedly drafted by an Allied soldier, known only as "Eddie", on stationary recovered from the tunnel network beneath Adolf Hitler's Eagle's Nest in Berchtesgaden, Germany. The upper-left corner is adorned with a Parteiadler above the words "Der Führer", both in gold leaf. The frame is natural red oak with blue matting and backed by plain cardboard. The glass is decorated by WWII-era U.S. military patches. The letter is coincidentally dated June 5th, 1945, the same day as the Berlin Declaration, wherein the four governments of the United States, Soviet Union, United Kingdom and France assumed joint authority over German territory prior to the upcoming Potsdam Conference. The text of the letter reads as follows: "Berthesgaden[sic], Germany / June 5, 1945 / My Dear Ma, Nick & Charles, / Here is a sheet of Hitler's stationary, which I found yesterday. It was under-ground in a tunnel, directly under his home, on the mountain. Their[sic] are miles upon [sic] of tunnel. Every-thing you can think of is under there.
	Radio-stations, switch-boards, living rooms, could live under there for ages. / A lovely day out, played volley ball this morning and my sun-tan is certainly coming along okay. Also did a washing of cloths, which took up a couple of hours. / Here is a ribbon which the krauts get with the iron cross. I though[sic] the stationery[sic] and ribbon would be a nice souvenier[sic]. / Well that's about all for now. / From Your Trooper / Loads of Love and Kisses / Eddie". The paper is in excellent condition, with some expected folding creases (presumably for postal purposes)

	Winchester packaging ephemera. (126019-12AR)

No maker's mark or labels of any kind are present anywhere on the case except the letters "YKK" on the zipper tabs. The leather exhibits a moderate age pating throughout and the barest hints of deterioration atop the flap as well as instances of light wrinkling and crazing but overall remains supple and whole with excellent stitching and rates fine as a whole. Next, an unmarked black leather box pouch, 2" by 5 1/2" by 3 1/2", rating very good plus to excellent with some light surface wrinkling and storage wear; a strap or similar attachment appears to be missing from the rear evidenced by a small triangle of empty stitching holes on the rear face. Vintage Argentine 105mm Schneider Artillery Shooting Table Books Three Spanish-language books in a leather book pouch. Includes the Schneider & Co. Tabla de Tiro para el Obús de Montaña de 10,5cm Schneider Modelo Argentino 1928 parts 1 and 2 and a journal of hand-filled tables recording firing data. The second volume also features a pocket in the back cover containing a collection of folded trajectory graphs. The binding of the volumes is age-yellowed and the spines exhibit some minor fraying. Some of the pages are loose and many in each volume show very light foxing scattered throughout. The ink remains crisp and excellent, including the hand-penned entries in the firing data record, and all pages appear to be present and largely undamaged in all volumes. All three volumes fit comfortably into the included 8" by 5 1/2" leather snap-button pouch; the pouch is in fine condition, exhibiting some expected age patina and the barest of surface deterioration but no loss and complete tight stitching. An intriguing set of South American artillery literature. (126129-4AB)
